

協作對我們兩個人都有好處
Collaboration is better for both of us

What's needed to optimize the power of China for the benefit of America?

A common enemy.

Fear in animals is responsible for species survival. Fear is the most natural of all emotions. Not being killed is a good thing.

Therefore, to quote Nelson Mandela, "If you want to make peace with your enemy, you have to work with your enemy. Then he becomes your partner."

America needs to identify what both China and America need to do to avoid the natural fear of: the results of climate change, population sickness, regime-threatening economic crisis, significant unemployment and external attack.

The problems and possible solutions include:

Creating regulation controlling forces that adversely impact the environment.

Improving the health of populations, with a goal of reducing the cost of providing increased longevity.

Providing economically relevant education of the young, so they can deal with technology for the benefit of all.

Increasing the management skills of women through education.

Identifying and addressing the causes of what makes some segments of the population prone to poverty.

Creation of satisfying and rewarding jobs.

Identifying and protecting against societal and political groups intent on gaining country and world dominance by a popular conversion to their beliefs.

Collaboration is a better mutual objective than zero-sum economic competition, leading to policies that reflect a national need for winning at all cost.

Arthur Lipper, Chairman
British Far East Holdings Ltd.
arthurlipper@gmail.com